scope. When Mrs. Theodore Birney gave her call to the mothers of the land to assemble in Washington in 1896, to perfect the plans for this organization, it was to be able to reach every mother of our country, to tell them that child study is a science; that the possibility of the race is in the child.

For over a century the science of child life had been smoldering, occasionally flaming out with new life with just the individual mother clubs, but the desire of Mrs. Birney to see hundreds of mothers for child study—this one definite idea was characteristic of the woman. The direct object of the organization was to wipe out maternal ignorance, to make of every household a home, by educating the mothers, multiplying its pleasures and creating more ideal surroundings for its children.

Founders day is to be a national day, wouldn't it be well for every Parent-Teacher association and Mothers' club to decide on a program for Mothers' day? The direct object of the organization is to wipe out maternal ignorance, to make of every household a home, by educating the mothers, multiplying its pleasures and creating more ideal surroundings for its children.

Cochran, Ga., Bibles Contest. Cochran has held a most successful Bibles Contest and health exhibit. The exhibit used in Atlanta was supplied with valuable material for the health of the community. The health exhibit will be lasting. Cochran has a new courthouse, and in it a rest room for the women of the county.

Mrs. Dugan, district vice president, has been elected to the position of district vice president of the department of labor in Washington, sent much literature to be used. Printed health posters were secured from Chicago. These give charts on food values. The whole exhibit was to Cochran, then, a health exhibit, and in it a rest room for the women of the county.

orn Presbyterians have based their fight for their university: "And so will I go in under the flag which is not according to the law, and if I perish, I perish."

Following this, Major J. O. Varnado, class-mate of Sidney Lanier, will call the roll of the living alumni of Oglethorpe, of whom it is hoped that there will be a considerable number present and each will give a minute message saluting their new-born alma mater.

A message from President Wilson will then be read, after which Dr. William Owens, president of the Oglethorpeans, will bring a five-minute message from the other denominations of the city of Atlanta.

The Oglethorpeans is the name of an organization of men who raised the Atlanta bonus of $250,000 for the location of the university in their city. These men, although members of every denomination and creed, are all enthusiastic devotees to the institution in the founding of which they played so large a part. Dr. Owens is also the president of the Silver Lake company and was largely instrumental in the securing of the magnificent campus which Oglethorpe was given.

Reading of Odes.

Thereafter will follow one of the most unique and interesting numbers of the program, and in fact one of the most interesting events ever connected with the laying of a cornerstone. The American collegiate history, Sidney Lanier, and Sidney Lanier, who ranks with the seven immortal American literature. Lanier attended Oglethorpe for four years and was a tutor there for the fifth year, then at the outbreak of the war between the states he marched out with the Oglethorpe cadets to join the Confederate army. It seemed particularly fitting therefore that the new Oglethorpe should dedicate its cornerstone with literary from the very beginning of its career. To this end it was suggested to the executive committee that a number of leading southern poets, each in his own case to read and to write a cornerstone ode on the present occasion.

Benjamin C. Moore, of Virginia; W. H. Hayne, of Georgia; C. W. Hubner, of Georgia; Carl Holliday, of Tennessee; Sam Cowdin, of Kentucky; Starke Young, of Texas; Samuel Minton, of Alabama; Henry E. Harman, of Georgia; William H. Miller, of Georgia; Robert Lowman, of Georgia.

Most of these odes have already been received by the committee and are marked with brilliant execution. The exercises will be held in the North Avenue Presbyterian church of Atlanta, and will be presided over by Dr. W. J. Martin, president of David College, and moderator of the general assembly.

Immediately after the conclusion of the exercises in the church the members of the board and their guests will motor out Peetre road to the campus, where the actual setting of the cornerstone will take place, with exercises appropriate to the occasion and a banquet will be tendered to this body in the evening at the Wincock hotel.

This is the program for the cornerstone exercises for the first university of the South, and the first of the continent that ever rose from the dead and the only university that actually died for its ideals.

Address by Dr. Vance.

Following the reading of the odes will come the address of Dr. James I. Vance, vice president of the board of directors, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Nashville, Tenn., and thereafter the dedicatory prayer offered by Dr. E. M. Green, class of 1853, ex-moderator of the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church, and now pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Danville, Va.

Many Women Still Want Winter Coats

Look at These for Monday
Two Groups:
Coats at $4.50
Coats at $9.75

These are surely days of opportunity for savings—and women whose New Year's resolutions took a practical turn are taking advantage of them.

There are 65 Coats to select from Monday, every one worth two or three times as much as is asked for it—which means real savings of the very best kind.

Good, warm, rough-and-ready garments, exactly what will be wanted for the snow and ice to come this month and next. Such coats as women are not afraid to give the hardest kind of wear, because they are well made of sturdy materials: Zibelines, chinchillas, men's overcoating, with plaid backs, and in addition are good-looking garments.

Plenty of College Coats included with the longer coats—and all truly wonderful values at the prices we ask for them Monday.

Some Dressy Coats among them. For instance: A black meriteux plush, with green satin lining—a $20 coat is priced for this sale at $9.75.

Others of equal interest. An opportunity worthy of your consideration. Monday at 8 o'clock. Fourth Floor.

New Spring Embroideries Are Here

Lovely, beyond the power to describe them, are the new Embroideries for 1915.

They have been opened here and made ready for your inspection on Monday or any day, as you tour the store.

You will be charmed with the sheer, fairy-like fabrics, the wonder of weaves. The novel combination of materials. The new fillet effects; the elaborate flouncings of sheerest organdie, or voile in shadow design.

There are 45-inch flouncings and others, all the way down to collar widths. Some exquisite things in dainty pastel shades for collars and sets.

Also Baby Sets

How can we tell you of all the beauty and daintiness contained in the new Embroideries for babies' wardrobes? So many entirely new things. Yokes, Caps, Allovers, Skirtings, Ruffledings, Bands, Readings—everything needed, or wanted in the making of little clothes.

New White Goods of Special Interest for Monday

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Quickly Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2.50 compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more potent and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual cough, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves whooping cough quickly—and is excellent for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pine (150 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pine. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membrane. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent, loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pine on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pine is the most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with quassia and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "The Cough Cure of Pine," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with the preparation. The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IN THE SUNNY SOUTH

THE gowns and hats for Southern wear will be modeled principally on the lines of those we have been using during the Fall and early Winter. The adoption of the full, short skirt will be universal, and the proportion of large and small hats about equal.

The quaint frock on the semi-invalid is made of fine organdie, untrimmed. It has a skirt composed of a full, narrow hemmed ruffle and a little black satin bodice worn over a long-sleeved, V-necked guimpe of organdie. The large, flat leghorn hat has a wreath of brown roses against a background of old blue.

The long, Roman-striped scarf is of knitted silk.

The gown of russet brown foulard has a chemise tunic of futurist figured silk crepe, falling straight from the neck, under a little bolero of brown. The high Bernhardi choker and the bottom of the tunic are faced with tango yellow. A close hat of yellow straw with flaring brown wings, completes this costume.

The third dress is of old blue chifon cloth. The full gathered skirt is bordered with five graduated bands of taffeta ribbon. The moyen age bodice of old blue taffeta fastens under the arm. The upstanding neck ruche is of moisture-proof meline. A French sailor of black satin trimmed with a band of blue taffeta ribbon and a row of yellow primroses and a russet brown parasol lend the needed color note.

Fine Exhibition Dates--Billy Returns Monday

FINE EXHIBITION GAMES IN SPRING

Eleven Games Already Booked--Four National League Teams to Appear
Here.

The Crackers are arranging a fine list of exhibition games for the coming spring training season and Atlanta fans are going to see some of the best teams in the country in action here.

Chief in interest naturally will be the appearance here of the world's champions, Boston Braves, with their heroes, Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, George Tyler, Dick Rudolph, Ned Smith, Connelly and others.

Sherwood Mages, the recent addition to the Braves, is one of the most vicious hitters in the National League, will here with the Braves on March 24 and 27 and April 2.

Jack Adams, the Cincinnati Reds, will appear here on March 24 and 26. Babe Ruth, who has been named as a member of the team, and Chatterbox, the star pitcher, and the Norcross, Ga. boy, who has jumped back from the Federal and whose jumping was pulled off by Manager Herring in coming.

Freddie Clarke, Hans Wagner and company, otherwise known as the Pittsburgh Pirates, will appear here April 5 and 6. The Pirates who will appear here are two former Crackers.

Joe Connelman, who helped to pitch the Crackers to their 1912 pennant, is a member of the Pirates' pitching staff. Sid Smith, who was a Crackers' pennant winner, has been secured by the Pirates.

The Philadelphia Nationals, who have been the center of the majority of the winter baseball circles during the past couple of weeks, will appear here March 29 and 30.

Pat Moran, the new manager of the Phillies, succeeded Red Doan. With that will be Ernie, the former Crackers, and George Packard, also a former Cracker.

Then there is Gavy Cravath, the famous fence buster; Bena Becker, the former Little Rock star; outfielder, Milton Stock and Al Demaree, former Mobile star in this league. Jack Adams, the New Orleans catcher. These three were recently traded to the Giants in exchange for Hans Lobert, the Phillies' regular third-sacker.

Other Dates Pending.

The Louisville Colonels, who played here last spring, are booked for games on April 1 and 2.

Other dates are pending, and when they are all announced it is believed that the Crackers will have a schedule that will comprise about twenty-five games.

The Braves will also play other games here. Then it is almost certain that the Rochester and Toronto International League teams will play here again in seasons past.

The St. Louis Americans, with whom the Crackers have a working agreement this season and who have former Southern leaguers on their roster than any other local club, will also be booked for games here.

With the Braves, who he knew, Ryan, Wares, Hemingway, Walker, Pratt, Manning, and other players well known in this section, any of whom are likely to find a place on the 1915 Crackers.

UP TO OLD TRICKS.

Evans Misses Easy Put and Loses a Match.

Atlantic City, N. J., January 9.—Jerome D. Travers, of New York, and Oswald Kirby, of New York, today defeated Charles W. Evans, of Chicago, and C. E. Hudson, of Philadelphia, 1 up, 19 holes, in a four-ball match that featured the opening of the new Seawall Golf club.

Evans threw away the match on the last green by missing a 1-inch putt. Travers won the match on this green by the false stroke of his opponent as Hudson went out of the running on bunkering his second shot.

Giants' Spring Dates.

New York, January 9.—The first secretary of the New York National League club today announced the spring training schedule for the Giants. The schedule follows:

March 6, 13, Dallas; March 22, Dallas; March 24, Houston; April 4, 5, 6, New Orleans; April 8, Knoxville; April 9, Bristol, Tennessee-Virginia; April 10, Richmond; April 12, Washington; April 13, Yale (two games); Polo rounds.

Eggers Predicts He'll Stop Herman in Tuesday's Scrap

Johnny Eggers is not going to be content with any decision start in his ten-round bout Tuesday night at the Bijou with Kid Herman. The New Yorker has set his heart on adding another "K. O." to his long string, and he doesn't make any bones of advertising the fact.

"The best way to finish up a guy," says Johnny, "is to stop him. Then there isn't any room for a yell about the decision. When they count ten over a fellow, he usually is willing to admit that the other guy had something. I can box a little, too, but I never got so very much satisfaction out of decisions. Too often they are draws. I don't like draws. They don't look any as good in your record as that old 'K. O.' sign."

And the first Johnny did in the way of training here was to go out Saturday morning for a five-mile road jaunt. He heaved it hard all the way and finished in a fine perspiration, but not breathing hard at all.

"The boy is in grand shape," said Billy Jacobs, his manager and trainer. "He's hard as iron all over, and has all the endurance in the world. He is for a 20-round bout right at this minute, and he'll go there to give Herman the ten fastest rounds the Kid ever was up against--unless it ends earlier."

British Tennis Experts With the Allied Armies

London, December 24.—Nearly every prominent British tennis expert known to the American public is now in some part of the world, where he is being utilized by the British army.

Wilding obtained a commission in the Royal Air Force, and he is now in the front line. He is now in the front line. He is now in the front line.

The Philadelphia Nationals, who have been the center of the majority of the winter baseball circles during the past couple of weeks, will appear here March 29 and 30.

EARL COOPER WINS BIG AUTO ROAD RACE

San Diego, Cal., January 9.—Earl Cooper won the 300-mile Panama-Pacific exposition automobile road race here today. W. P. Carlson was second and Tom Alley third. Cooper's time was 4:10:45.

Carlson finished 11.9 minutes behind Cooper. Alley finished 10 minutes behind Cooper. The race was 300 miles in all.

Barnes' off-road was forced out by engine trouble in the thirty-ninth lap. He had been running sixth.

A feature of the race was the large number of minor mishaps and the absence of serious accidents. In the first lap Huntley Gordon struck a railroad crossing on the back street and threw three tires simultaneously.

The car was put out of the race, but Gordon and his mechanic escaped unharmed. Harry Bryant was unable to start on account of a broken frame.

Klein failed to cross the start line, his car being behind him. Jack Callaghan crashed into a pole on the first lap and was wrecked.

Six field hospitals and ambulance were called upon.

LEE MAGEE'S CASE POSTPONED A WEEK

Cincinnati, January 9.—After hearing preliminary evidence in the suit filed by the American Baseball and Athletic Union company seeking to restrain Lee Magee, known as "Lefty," from playing with the Cincinnati Reds, Federal Judge Hollister today postponed the case for a week.

According to President Gilmore, of the Federal League, Magee, who was transferred from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Cincinnati club, will not be allowed to leave the Federal League until the case is decided. The injunction proceedings against Magee were filed by the Cincinnati Reds, the other National or American League club ever would be filed.

SMITH AND MORRIS MATCHED.

St. Louis, January 9.—"Gunboat" Smith of New York, and Carl Morris of Sapulpa, Okla., heavyweight fighters, met for a 10-round bout here today night, 26, according to announcement to the press.

GEORGE WHITTED RESCUES GAFFNEY

Braves' Outfielder Saves Club Owner From Drowning on Stallings' Plantation—Gets Raise in Salary.

Macon, Ga., January 9.—James P. Gaffney, president of the world's champion Boston Braves, had a narrow escape from drowning this afternoon while hunting quail on the Stallings plantation at Haddock's.

President Gaffney's companions at the time were George Whitted, a member of the world's champions team, and William J. McBeth, a sporting writer of New York. The party was crossing a dangerous section of a swamp at the time when Gaffney slipped from a log which bridged a deep bog and fell, almost head foremost, into the water below, which was a bed of quicksand.

Gaffney was able to extricate his head and he kept his body above water until Whitted and McBeth rescued him, which they did by pulling him out on the quicksand when pulled out.

Gaffney pronounced Whitted a hero and in appreciation of his rescue, he offered Whitted a contract to play for the Braves this season. Whitted said he would sign before he leaves for New York.

NAPS WILL TRAIN

Cleveland, Ohio, January 9.—The Cleveland American team today completed arrangements for spring training at San Antonio, Texas. The team will leave here February 26.

KID HURDIE BEATING
SCARES BOALS

A Desperate Spurt in the Second Half Alone Saves
the Local Team—Score,
35 to 26.

In the second fought game yet staged on the local floor, the Athletic club of Knoxvillians today defeated the local team by a score of 35 to 26.

The local live had a very narrow escape from defeat, as the Knoxville aggregation proved that they were "tigers" in something else besides the starting.

The score at the end of the first period was 15 to 12, with the visitors holding the long end. The Tigers played great ball in this half, and not only was their offense almost impossible, but their defense was very efficient. Their short passing down the field not only in this half, in the entire game was beautiful and almost cost the local crew a victory.

However, when the second half started the club seemed to come back to life, and realizing that in order to win they must play hard, ran the score up to 21 to 15 before the visitors scored. Then Knoxville played great ball in rapid order, tying the score. The club then played great ball and their passing and accurate goal shooting was a fine feature.

The game was pretty fought and evenly played. The visitors were called on the club by the referee, only one of which was for rough playing, while only one of the calls on the visitors, all of which were for holding.

FORBES STARS

The stars of the contest were many, man on the floor was that of Forbes, and Martin, who was called on the floor by the referee, only one of which was for rough playing, while only one of the calls on the visitors, all of which were for holding.

Forbes played great ball at center for the local club, and in nearly every case got the tip-off. Zeke Martin, who started the game at forward in substitution for Captain Smith, played excellent ball, shooting five dead goals in the first half, ten of the thirteen points the club made. Weaver, Ed Carter and Jim Harrison also played well, receiving in the last half.

For the visitors, the playing of Suncie, Reeder and Hickman was the best.

The line-up and summary:

MERCER QUINTET
DEFEATS GRANT A. C.

Macon, Ga., January 9.—(Special.)—The Orange and Black quintet, known as the Mercer quintet, defeated the Grant Athletic club of Atlanta, 27 to 10, in a basketball game here today.

The result of the game was never in doubt, the Mercers having the lead from the first tip-off until the Grant quintet made a comeback in the second half, while the end of the game. The playing of Captain Stutes at forward in substitution for Captain Smith, played excellent ball, shooting five dead goals in the first half, ten of the thirteen points the club made. Weaver, Ed Carter and Jim Harrison also played well, receiving in the last half.

For the visitors, the playing of Suncie, Reeder and Hickman was the best.

Billy Will Not Return Until Monday Morning

Manager Billy Smith, of the Crackers, did not return to Atlanta yesterday morning, as expected. He will arrive Monday morning, being delayed because of some personal business.

Billy will be the basest little man in Atlanta upon his return, mapping out the affairs of the Crackers for the coming season.

First and foremost, he will have to attend to the figuring out of his contracts for his players and getting them mailed to the prospective candidates before February 1. If they do not reach the men by that time, they will be automatically declared free agents.

Then Billy will have the worry of remodeling the diamond at South Park. It has been torn up for the laying of a sewer that has been a bone of contention and a disgrace for the past several seasons.

The poor weather of December made the working on the sewer a matter of impossibility, and the work will have to be rushed to be completed in time for Billy to get his diamond ready for spring training.

FIGHTER IS DEAD.

Jack Newton Suffers Brain
Concussion From Knockout.

Seattle, Wash., January 9.—L. Anderson, a heavyweight prize fighter, known in the ring as Jack Newton, who suffered concussion of the brain when knocked out last night by Ike Cohen, died today.

Cohen and one of his seconds are in jail. The referee and three others are out on bail.

The bout was fought before the Pacific Athletic club, an organization of police and firemen.

PIRATES START WORK AT DAWSON SPRINGS

SKELTON VS. BAKER AT THE MONTGOMERY

St. Louis Pool Expert Plays
Local Crack Monday—Tournament on Tuesday.

William E. Baker, the St. Louis pocket billiard expert who has played several matches in this season, has been signed to play a match game with Brady Skelton, manager of the Montgomery billiard parlors on Monday night.

The match will start at 8 o'clock and will be 100 balls. After the match Mr. Baker will exhibit his famous fancy and trick shots for the benefit of the patrons of the Montgomery.

Tuesday night, starting at 8:30 o'clock, the Montgomery will stage a pocket billiard tournament between eight of the best players in the city.

This tournament will be 100 balls in each match and four matches will be played a week, each player in the tournament meeting the other during the progress of the play and the player with the highest percentage being declared the winner.

Three cash prizes will be awarded: $25 to the first man, $15 to the second and $10 to the third. The first match Tuesday night will be between Alexander, Cohen, Marks, and Hau Grant, Callahan and Barkdale.

Have You Seen the New 1915 Mitchell "Light Six"?

Here is the new 1915 Mitchell "Light Six." John M. Speer, local manager of the Mitchell Motor Sales company, 316 Peachtree, was exhibiting it to a number of admiring friends Saturday, who declared it to be a model of exceptional grace and beauty.

MORE CAR, LESS MONEY, IS POLICY OF OVERLAND

Demonstration of This Striking Feature of Exhibit in New York.

The most striking feature of the Overland exhibit which occupied the first position at the New York show was the fact that each of the five cars on exhibition showed in a marked degree the policy of the Willys-Overland company of continually giving more car for less money.

Of the five cars shown, a touring car, four-cylinder coupe and a roadster were of the four-cylinder, thirty-five horsepower class, the others being a Model 31 four-cylinder touring car and a Model 32 four-cylinder touring car. As John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, believed in showing the public just exactly what a patron gets when he purchases an Overland, all of the cars were strictly standard in finish and equipment. In addition, a polished chassis of the Overland Model 31 was also shown.

The points of all five models which received the first attention of the observer are the graceful, strictly up-to-date body designs and a number of improvements which add materially to the riding comfort and secure the maximum of the quietness and flexibility of operation.

Long wheelbases have given the Overland designers much leeway for the creation of rooms, comfortable bodies in the development of which much attention has been given to interior refinements which have been an especial appeal to the experienced motorist. In all Overland models the curtains are fastened and unfastened from inside the car.

Also a decided feature of the unusual practice of holding the folded-down curtains with the aid of the Overland's are provided with unique claims which hold the seats securely in place and prevent any rattling or banging on concealed hinges with inside-mounted latches which are used to catch the aprons of the passengers. The steering column is tilted to the left with the speed control gear and the set forward of the front seat to permit easy entrance to the front compartment.

Georgia State League
To Cut Salaries and
Shorten the Season

American, Galt, January 9.—(Special.)—President Kalmus has called the annual meeting of the directors of the Georgia State League for January 20 in Atlanta. At this time the work of the past season will be covered and the reorganization for 1915 will be made. President Kalmus will suggest that the salary limit of the league be cut, exactly in half, from $250 a month to $125.

The president will advocate a shortening of the season, and urge the scheduling of the season to begin May 1 and end August 1. An amendment to the by-laws of the league, whereby only one class of men can be carried by a club will also be presented.

It is more than likely that the league will be enlarged to an eight-team organization. Also than likely Dublin, Fitzgerald and Wilkes are expected to be representatives at the meeting here. At the meeting the president of the coming year will be selected. President Kalmus has already made Nick Curran, of the Salt Lake, his practical opponent and it is understood that Curran is the league will be selected again.

Prominent members of the league are Jim Sinclair, president of the Waynesville club, and J. H. Johnson, director of the Thomasville club. J. H. Johnson, president of the Columbus club, and J. H. Johnson, president of the Columbus club, and J. H. Johnson, president of the Columbus club.

TECH FRESHMEN WIN;
SENIORS THE SOPHS

Wonderful Records Made by
Collection Departments With
Harley-Davidsons.

In the third round of class football games at Tech, the seniors fought the sophomores to a tie, but the freshmen succeeded in trouncing the subs, 13 to 0.

In the senior-soph conflict the former team put up a much stronger fight than anyone had expected. They came within scoring distance of the sophs goal a number of times, but never had the power to push the ball over.

The sophs threatened their opponents goal but once and this was in the last quarter, but with a few minutes left to play, the sophs took the ball on downs on their own 40-yard line and succeeded in carrying it, mostly by and runs by Myers, to the senior 2-yard line, when the whistle blew, ending the game and robbing the sophs of a victory.

The freshmen team did not put up the class of ball that it exhibited against the juniors. Their team work was rather off and there seemed to be very little pep in their play. They were good work on the offense, while the seniors and sophs were the mainstay of the defense.

Myers did the best work for the sophs. Smith, Richardson and Crutcher were the sophs' mainstay. Smith and Richardson were the sophs' mainstay. Smith and Richardson were the sophs' mainstay.

Contrary to expectations, the freshmen team was far from the runaway match that was expected. The sophs presented their strongest line-up of the year and had them working in the past games, the freshmen might have been different.

Coch Alexander was drafted into the backfield where he helped the sophs to a great deal. Bell, captain and tackle on the champion Gordon eleven, and who entered school at the beginning of the week, was used in yesterday's struggle. He was a unanimous choice for a position on the all-Georgia team.

In the first quarter, the freshmen Strappa skinned the end for a 30-yard run. The sophs were unable to stop Strappa on the 3-yard line for stopping out of bounds. After two backs over the line had failed, Strappa managed to carry it over.

The second score came as a result of some good planning by the freshmen line-up of both ends. The 8-yard line. Hill hit tackle for the 3 yards and Strappa carried the ball for the 3 yards.

Each team worked one forward pass. The freshmen's pass from Strappa to Hill, netted them about 10 yards. The sophs' pass from Alexander to Philo, gained 10 yards.

Strappa, Rivas, Ware and Harwell gained. The sophs' pass made some 20 yards. The sophs' pass made some 20 yards.

Columbus, Ohio, January 9.—The Columbus boxing commission tonight lifted the indefinite suspension of Frankie Burns, a New York boxer, and Frank C. Burns of New Orleans, for alleged violation of the contract. An investigation showed that the fighters with the commission's rules constitute a misunderstanding.

GREAT STRIDES MADE
MOTORCYCLE'S USE

Wonderful Records Made by
Collection Departments With
Harley-Davidsons.

The wonderful strides made in the use of motorcycles by business houses all over the south in the past twelve months has opened the eyes of dealers to this practically new and undeveloped field. During December the Harley-Davidson Motor company ran some advertisements in the Atlanta papers, giving the names of quite a number of firms who were going to handle their Christmas delivery business with motorcycles.

These merchants who used the motorcycle for a special delivery business, pleased with the results, so much so that since then they have placed orders with the Harley-Davidson company for motorcycles, and the special collection department of the Atlanta Harley-Davidson company is busy. Quite a number of firms have been using the Harley-Davidson for several years past, and at present state that they do not see how they could get along without them.

Especially this can be said of the collection department of the Atlanta Harley-Davidson company, who have two Harley-Davidson in service. They have increased the efficiency of their collectors fully, while the expense of operation is far less than car fare. One of the best users of Harley-Davidson motorcycles in Atlanta probably is the Johnson-Gewinner company, who make a specialty of the Kelly-Springfield automobile tire and have a special delivery service.

For instance, they have customers with tires and tubes anywhere within 30 miles of Atlanta. This firm uses at the present time nine Harley-Davidson motorcycles. The firm of Johnson-Gewinner, in speaking of the service and the efficiency they are getting from the Harley-Davidson motorcycles said the other day: "A motor in our service gets the hardest usage that could be given. For instance, one of our customers runs a tire out on the road 25 miles from Atlanta; he goes to the nearest telephone and calls us up and tells us his trouble; one of our men is mounted on a Harley-Davidson with the required casing and inner tube and is on his way. It is absolutely necessary that he be there quick, for our customer is out in the woods waiting for him and is very impatient and every minute seems an hour. We have found in this service that the Harley-Davidson is absolutely dependable, and we feel positive when the boy leaves here on a motor he is going to get there on time and deliver our customer, and will be back very shortly ready to duplicate his performance."

The cost of upkeep has been a source of great surprise and gratification to us. We keep an absolute tab on every machine we use. The cost is only a few cents per trip and at the end of the week we find this motor is a very economical machine. In the last 1000 miles we have made on Harley-Davidson the cost for the upkeep, including gas, is only an average of 2 cents a trip.

J. K. Johnson, who is present during this conversation, gave his address as Johnson-Gewinner Company, 224 Peachtree, Atlanta, Georgia. The United States government has probably the largest fleet of Harley-Davidson motorcycles in the country, having 2,000 carrying the mail over long routes, and thousands of testimonials received by this company from the carriers themselves repeat the same words: "Mr. Johnson as above as to the cost of upkeep practically nothing."

Attention Mr. Gus Castle, Mgr.
Gentlemen:—

The nine Harley-Davidson motorcycles that we are using in our tire delivery service are giving us the very best and most economical service. The Service that these Harley-Davidsons are giving, and the reliable consistency which they maintain, is remarkable. We wish to assure you that as long as the Harley-Davidson Company build such machines as these, we expect to use them in our ever-increasing tire business.

With best regards for a successful season, we are,

Very truly yours,

In the all-college team selections for the 1914 combination, The University of Southern California placed three and Pennsylvania two, Michigan, Yale, Dartmouth, Columbia and Maine athletes complete the team.

INTERESTING FIGURES
COMPILED BY FORD CO.

Some interesting sales figures are shown in the report just made by the Ford Motor company. During the month of August, September, October and November, last, there were 9,795 motor cars sold in the United States, or more than half—were Ford cars. Robert Ford, from other facts are interesting, showing the large proportionate increase of Ford sales in those districts. For example—in Kaufman county, Texas, from October, 1913, to October, 1914, 45 motor cars were sold. Of these, 45 were Fords. R. Livingston, Ford dealer in Mexico, Mo., reports that in October, 1914, he sold 23 Ford cars. In October, 1914, he sold 23 Ford cars. In October, 1914, he sold 23 Ford cars. In October, 1914, he sold 23 Ford cars.

cent over sales for the corresponding period of last year. Reports from other sales territories show the same proportionate gain. The Ford Motor company points out the logical conclusion that this enormous increase demonstrates the growing use of the Ford as a general economic utility.

Peiham 28, Norman Park 9.

Peiham, Ga., January 9.—(Special.)—In one of the most interesting and cleanest played games of basketball ever witnessed here, the local varsity team opened the season last night by defeating the strong Norman Park team, 28 to 9.

Cobb Burton, a guard for Peiham, was probably the leading individual player of the game. He was right after the ball all the time, and broke up play after play for the Norman Park boys when they were advancing with the ball. Robert Cochran played the best game for the visitors.

Wedding of Miss Agnes Jones And Mr. Elliott Hunter Muse

Albany, Ga. January 9.—(Special.)—The marriage of Miss Agnes Jones and Mr. Elliott Hunter Muse, solemnized at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Paul's church and followed by a brilliant reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Jones, was an event of unusual interest not only in Albany and Atlanta, but in other Georgia cities where both bride and groom are well known.

Rarely has St. Paul's, the scene of many beautiful weddings, been so elaborately decorated as on this occasion. The altar was a mass of Easter lilies, with background of smilax and southern hams. The wedding party entered by way of the central aisle, and in the following order: First the ushers, W. M. Baldwin, Henry Lanier J. D. Weston, Jr., Youel Williams of Albany; the groomsmen in couples alternating with the bridesmaids, were John Armistead and Carl Riddle, Miss Della Lindsey and Miss Theodosia Williamson, Frank Butler and Charles Meadow, Miss Carolyn Muse and Miss Emma Kate Amour, Wallace Draper and Chaucer Butler, Miss Mary Butler and Miss Kate Osbourne, Miss Lindsey and Miss Osbourne are from Savannah the others from Atlanta.

Mrs. H. F. Ray, matron of honor, was followed by Miss Miriam Jones, the bride's sister and maid of honor, after whom came the flower girls, little Misses Agnes Davis and de Courcy Jones. Preceding the bride were the bridesmaids, Della Jones and Thomas Humphreys Hillman. The bride approached the altar the groom, with her best man, Charles Muse, Jr., came from the vestry room. The bride partied to the strains of "Lohengrin" wedding march, and as they left the church Mendelssohn's was played. The marriage service, the Episcopal church was read by Rev. Gerald Cornwell, rector of St. Paul's, as the notes of Schubert's "Serenade" were played. Before the arrival of the bride, Mrs. John R. Lee Jones sang "So Fair, So Sweet, So Holy."

There were two hundred and fifty guests attending the reception at the palatial Jones home, immediately following the service at the church. The elaborate decorations hereoverlooked a color scheme of pink and white. The table round which the bridal party gathered was covered with white satin and the centerpiece was a mass of white Killarney roses. A shower of lilies of the valley falling from the chandelier, and sending streamers to each place. At each party were the gifts of bride and groom to members of the bridal party—photographs of the bride in silver frame, with the name of the recipient engraved thereon, for the bridesmaids, and gold pocketcases similarly engraved for the groomsmen. Handcuffed monogrammed boxes with slices of the bride's cake were at each place.

The bride's gown was of white tulle embroidered with pearls, over white satin, made with court train. The veil was caught with orange blossoms, and the only ornament was a circlet of diamonds the groom's gift. Her bouquet was of lilies of the valley. Miss Miriam Jones wore white satin with overdrapes of georgette crepe and waist of silver anglois lace. She carried a basket of roses. The bridesmaids wore georgette crepe gown, pink neck, trimmed with silver, and with silver buttons. They carried ivory baskets of Killarney roses.

The groom wore a well-known gown of white tulle, with a well-known young business man of Atlanta, has a large family connection in Albany, and many friends in this community. A collection of beautiful and young presents from many cities bore evidence of the popularity of the young couple, who will reside in Atlanta after returning from their honeymoon.

Mrs. DeGive Issues Appeal For the Belgian Sufferers

Once more Atlanta women have been called upon to rally for the relief of Belgian sufferers, to rally for the relief of their sisters of all America who are working for the same cause.

And Atlanta women will meet the call. Mrs. Henry DeGive, wife of the Belgian consul in Atlanta, has been asked by Dr. F. H. May, French consul in Atlanta, to muster the forces of the various Atlanta women who have already worked for the cause, and those who have not yet responded, that all may assist in making Belgian flag day, January 15, a success. It is planned to sell flags on that day in every city of the United States, and the cities of Georgia will assuredly do their part. Mrs. DeGive will announce her committee to work with her in Atlanta early in the week, and it is hoped by her that not only will the flags be sold, but that many may find it possible to contribute more to the cause of food and garments for the sufferers in these stricken lands, and to the other side. Appeals come from national headquarters urging that a generous response be made to this recent call, while American writers and investigators describe in dramatic terms the crying need for the Belgian women and children, during a severely cold winter.

Miss Margaret Northern Weds Mr. Roy T. Dorsey

The marriage of Miss Margaret Northern and Mr. Roy T. Dorsey took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles A. Northern.

Miss Northern, of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by the families of both parties.

The bride's gown of white satin and duchess lace was the same worn by her mother at the latter's wedding. A veil of tulle was confined to the hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms, and she carried gardenias and valley lilies.

Masters Charles Northern and William McCarty attended the bride and groom when they entered the drawing room where the ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of palms and lilies. Throughout the house beautiful flowers sent by loving friends added a decorative touch, and there were many beautiful gifts to testify to the popularity of the young couple.

The bride is one of the prettiest and most lovable of young women. She is the only daughter of the late Charles K. Northern, who was one of the best-known and most-loved men in Georgia, and she is the granddaughter of Dr. J. D. Earnest, Atlanta's esteemed physician and pioneer citizen.

Mr. Dorsey is the youngest son of the late Judge Rufus Dorsey, the eminent jurist. Owing to the recent death of the bride's father, the wedding was a very quiet event, there being no invitations issued and no formal reception.

And Mrs. Dorsey left on the evening train for Florida, where they will be for several weeks. On their return they will be at home with Mrs. R. T. Dorsey, in Anasay Park.

Dr. Flinn to Address Atlanta Graded Union.

The Atlanta Graded Union, composed of Sunday school teachers of all denominations, will hold its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon, January 12, at 2 o'clock, in the First Wesley Memorial church.

The feature of the meeting will be an address by Dr. Richard Orme Flinn on "The Importance of Prayer." Dr. Flinn's power as a speaker on lines of religious work insure a very interesting and impressive discussion of this vital theme.

The usual department conferences will be held during the afternoon.

An invitation is hereby extended to all teachers to join this body. Its object is to improve methods of teaching in the Sunday schools, to broaden the culture of those who are doing this work, and to devise better ways of meeting the needs of the children of the community.

Mrs. Charles A. Davis is president.

"That Something New" for Spring Shown at Allen's in January New Suits, New Dresses, New Blouses, New Hats

Ready for Smart Winter Resort Wear

It would seem that truly Spring presents "flaring lines at the bottom of things, and high collars at the top of them."

As winter fashions have forecast such changes there is no striking shock in the announcement—the real radicalism of the marked difference strikes gently and pleasingly—as most season changes do—

New White Broadcloth Suits

The 1915 white spring suit is truly a "stunner." Mark its determined air; its "I am here!" briskness—its fresh whiteness, like a midwinter snow—or a spring blossoming apple orchard. Their smart Beaver collars contrasting delightfully—and new gray mixtures—and sand-colored serge and gabardine; with flaring skirts and high-waisted, belted coats.

Satin collar and cuffs.

NOTICE—Only one entry blank will be allowed and credited to each candidate.

HOW YOU CAN OBTAIN A TRIP

The plan evolved by The Atlanta Constitution whereby you can take one of these wonderful trips as outlined is as simple in understanding as it is easy of execution. Although The Constitution has a large circulation, there are some who at present are not subscribers. They want the Daily and Sunday Constitution, but have put off ordering from day to day. The Constitution desires your assistance in locating and placing these people on its subscription list, and for this favor you are to be liberally rewarded.

Points will be given on each new subscription payment to The Atlanta Constitution according to the schedule given above and after you have obtained the required number of points a wonderful trip to the greatest of all exhibitions will be yours.

You may nominate yourself or a friend as a candidate for one of these trips. The names of all candidates nominated will be published in The Daily Constitution from time to time, giving their respective standing.

Each candidate on nomination will be credited with 100 points free, and will be provided with an authorized Constitution receipt book. These receipt books may be had by applying to the Circulation Department of The Constitution. Each candidate obtaining one of these free tours may take the trip to San Francisco any time during 1915 he or she may desire. The exposition opens on February 20, and closes December 4, 1915.

Special arrangements have been made with the McFarland Tourist Agency to furnish the various trips we are offering and the starting point of all of the successful candidates will be Atlanta. If you want to go to the exposition this is your opportunity. Send in your nomination at once and request The Constitution Receipt Book. Shuffling Out "Cakes" to Mr. Hungry Business Man Has Cotton Factory Beat Forty Ways, Says Mamie

White Apron Brigade Marches on South, But Not Like Sherman's Army

Cheerful, Buxom, Smiling Waitresses, Who Swoop Down on Atlanta From the North, Show How Happy and Healthy a Working Girl Can Be—"Why Don't the Southern Girls Join Us?" They Ask; "It's Better Than Working in Anybody's Mill, and There's More Money in It."

"Pride? Foolish! We're Proud As Anybody! Come on in, Girls; the Waiting's Fine!"

By Brita Craig.

Just as Sherman and his mighty tribe bombarded fort and farmhouse alike, another Yankee legion has marched down upon us from the north and is swelling Dixie's hostile mental traditions with a sweeping fire that is crumbling them as fast as they come under range of the guns.

But this host is welcome. They come buxom and smiling with a plate of buttercakes and a word of good cheer. Eventually they will have solved the servant girl problem of the south by teaching the southern working girl herself how to choke false pride and tradition and solve it on her own hook.

When a branch of a big northern chain of quick lunch restaurants opened recently in Atlanta, its first move was to import from its various restaurants in the north and east a young army of waitresses and cooks. They came creating nothing short of a sensation. White waitresses were so new in Atlanta that the big plate glass windows for days were thronged with curious crowds.

THEY'RE RIGHT THERE WITH REPARTÉE.

They were cheerful, ruddy-checked and healthy. They worked as though they got the utmost enjoyment out of it. And they were witty. Brash attempts at flirtation incurred a jolt that taught a lasting lesson. To be humiliated privately is bad enough. But at the supper table, when there are strangers around, and it is impossible on the spur of the moment to rig up an equally as cutting retort—is too much.

It is this host of smiling waitresses that is teaching the working girl class of Dixie that its traditions of menial labor are all wrong, and that domestic service is not only profitable, but is respectable, and, by all means, utterly advisable alongside a number of kinds of service in which a majority of the servant girl class ensnare themselves. The servant girl problem has long been an acute one in the south—more so than in the north. Simply for the reason that it was difficult to get worthy white girls into the service. In the north the immigrant type is available. And the American girl of the north was not above it. She had no straight-laced tradition to say her nay, no false pride to throttle.

In the south it had always been different. Only the negro had been considered as a servant, due to the antebellum days of slavery, when Dixie thrived on the milk of the land, and prosperity was as prevalent as the calamity howler nowadays. No white girl worked in those days. She was "po' white trash," if she did.

SENTIMENT LIVED AFTER WAR CEASED.

That sentiment outlived the war. It persisted until now, when it is dying a perfectly natural and welcomed death. Not only for the good of the white working girl, but for the good of so many, many despairing homes that wrestle with the servant girl problem.

Perhaps you have frequented this same restaurant I have in mind. And certainly you couldn't help but give attention to the squad of waitresses, so immaculate in white—literally "as spick as a pin." Or, perhaps, if you have tired of indolent and worthless servant girls, you wished you had one of these in your home.

In that case, the odds are you would have felt like taking her into the bosom of your family with her radiant smile and cleanliness and systematic service.

If you were so incorrigibly traditional that you wondered why girls so capable "should lower themselves to a servant's level," you should have but asked one of them.

She would have replied: "But I have never worked in a cotton mill."

Or words to that effect.

And that's the secret of it. The Yankee girl has no ante-bellum code to scorn her from this particular line of endeavor. Naturally, she chooses menial labor in preference to the cotton mill, or sweatshop.

Then, too, it is more attractive, less enervating, more profitable.

MAMIE IS TALKATIVE AND ELOQUENT.

A few nights ago I had a talk with Mamie. Mamie is a sensible woman, who has been in domestic service since childhood. She is a jolly Irish rose, good-natured and robust. The pink in her cheeks and a laugh in her eye say she has had but few sick days in her life.

She is a head waitress, or something of that kind. She calls the girls under her "her biddies." They call her mother. They all came down from the north together. When they first arrived there was an epidemic of homesickness among them, and they all looked to "Mother Mamie" for comfort. Some of them came from Philadelphia, some New York, some from Boston, others from Atlantic City.

They are Irish, Swedish, American, Scandinavian and there is a homie Scotch lass or two. To hear Mother Mamie speak of them you would think they were the most lovable girls on earth. Some of them have the native brogue. They all have the characteristic northern tongue, curt, expressive, indifferent. Some of them are slung, too, but real slang is eloquent.

MAMIE AND HER "GIRLS."

Mamie brought me butter, cakes and conversation. All around her white-aproned girls were swinging their dishes with an agility that drew admiration, not to mention wonderment. A smile here, a dash of stew there, a rebuke under a greeting there, they had many things to dispense.

"Why it is that southern working girls who come from the country to the city invariably go into the cotton mill or factory instead of household service is something that vexes me," said Mamie when we approached the servant girl subject. "They slave in these mills for scandalous wages, endure lives an able-bodied animal would shun, yet hoist their pride on a banner pole whenever anybody suggests a servant's job."

Now, mind you, I'm not attempting to reproduce Mamie's exact language. To do that would require a dictaphone. If I were only capable of transcribing Mamie's native eloquence, and to describe her staccatoed punctuation, every working girl who reads this story would apply without delay at the employment bureau for a job in Mr. Somebody's household as maid, waitress or cook.

Mamie missed her calling when she overlooked the lecture platform.

"It isn't a question of pride," Mamie told me. "It's just inherent aversion. Southern folks seem to have inherited the idea that nobody can be a servant but a negro. It's no disgrace—it's an art. A good servant girl is one of the most indispensable factors in the successful household."

"A competent servant girl is an artist."

THE FACTORY VERSUS THE RESTAURANT.

"Many of your factory girls come from the country to the city looking for employment. They have to go to work at something. They are all capable of some phase of household duty. Yet they scorn it when it's offered them. They give it that 'I might be had off, but not that low' attitude and back away from it like it was contagious.

"But when they're forced to go to something that will drive them, they enter the cotton mills, sweatshops, any sort of factory in which they can find employment. This from 'pride.' That isn't pride! No! It's a sin and a shame!"

"Once this sort of life claims them they are done for. They lose all hope and what little ambition they had when they went in. It ruins the life and makes empty shells out of them. She would have taken to the river before she'd have got a job as a waitress, too, but she took her honor and went into mill slavery."

"The country girl makes an excellent domestic. She is thorough, strong, clear-minded and usually conscientious. They come from the woods and hills, with blooms on their cheeks and clear eyes, ready for anything but carrying hot cakes and sweeping out. They wouldn't even nurse children, because it's a negro's job."

"How they can tolerate life in the mills and factories is a mystery I'll never be able to solve! The homes they live in frequently are slavey, the atmosphere foul, surroundings dirty, their work a drudgery. I guess they think it's reasonable. Well, they can be all the martyrs to that sort of honor they want. Give me the coffee cups and panicles every time."

"Domestic service is highly honorable. To the unacquainted country girl, coming into a strange city, I could recommend nothing more beneficial to her. Now, suppose, for the instance, we draw a character. Say her name is Lillian, and she comes from the mountains, or anywhere in the rural districts."

THE AVERAGE CASE OF LILLIAN.

"If she renounces the prospects for a position in some home, well and good—let her go on to the cotton mill or box factory. But, just suppose she accepted the offer from Mrs. Jones as servant girl. Mrs. Jones has the average home and a young child."

"Lillian goes into the Jones home to live as long as she stays on the job and is faithful. She occupies a clean, well-ventilated room, wears neat and cleanly clothing and sleeps in good surroundings. She uses the servant's bathtub, which is at her disposal as often as she wants it."

"Mrs. Jones, if she can get white help, has no negroes around the place. Whites are more reliable, more dependable. Lillian eats the same food that is set at Mrs. Jones' table. Her hours are good and regular, and she has a certain amount of time to herself. She stays in the family a good while. Mr. and Mrs. Jones and the little Joneses begin to take a personal interest in her. She becomes an institution in the Jones home."

"After work? Well, she probably has to attend to the general cleaning up, the dishes, nurse the child and look after it whenever required, make beds, run errands—whatever form of domestic duty that comes under the servant girl head. But look what she gets in compensation: Clean, helpful living; good food and clothing and a salary of $5 a week or more.

"Compare that with the cotton factory existence, then see where Lillian belongs."

"The uplifting association with the Joneses alone would be 'inducement enough.'"

"You'll find, though, that most of the girls who feed the factories and mills are either those who are born into the life, or the girl from the country. The country girl doesn't have to come to the city alone to be swallowed up by the mills. Their parents make the mistake of ever leaving the country, and, once in the city, force her to go to work."

"Then, again, it isn't so much a question of pride that prevents any number of them from going into domestic service. They just don't realize that it's there for them. The old southern codes have never recognized anybody but negroes as servants. Therefore, the Lillians can't figure that a white girl has the domestic opportunity."

"DON'T WE LOOK CHEERFUL ENOUGH?"

"I don't think it will take long for the southern girl to see from our example the value of menial employment in preference to an unlimited list of others. They just don't realize that it's over there didn't want his coffee—over there didn't want his coffee—over there didn't want his coffee. You will observe how healthy we look, how well dressed we are both at work and on the street, and how cheerful we take life. See—"

Mamie pointed out a trim young woman coming from the rear of the restaurant and making her eager steps toward the front entrance.

"That's a specimen of us."

The young woman was tastefully clothed in a black skirt and blue coat with a touch of color at the throat. A chic little bonnet, plain, simple, cheap, sat on her hair at a saucy angle. She wore sturdy shoes with high heels. From the Lillians waitresses you had been reading about, you'd never in the world have recognized her.

"We make a pretty good salary to begin with," Mamie continued, covering my attention from the fetching little figure that had just glided past. "But you have to consider the tips. We eat in the restaurant and have the best on the go. We all have good living quarters, cheap but adequate, and we generally band together. None of us has found waitresses a handicap, socially, financially or otherwise."

"Since I've been here, three of the girls have married men they met in Atlanta, and—"

"Ah, there he comes, now! Shall I see you later?"

"Oh, hello, John, you look mighty good tonight!"

To requite Mamie:

"—socially or otherwise," the Yankee host is teaching Dixie's working class that domestic service is not a curse, but an avenue to a worth-while future.

The Atlantic Coast Line Makes It Possible For You To Visit The Two Great International Expositions This Year Held In San Francisco and San Diego

DESCRIPTION OF EACH TRIP AND WHAT IS OFFERED

NO. 3—CONSTITUTION TOUR "DE LUXE" NO. 2—CONSTITUTION "STANDARD" TOUR

Northwest Circle Tour of 30 Days, Covering More Than 9,000 Miles by Rail and Steamer

Given For 7,800 Points

This Tour includes some of the most interesting parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico. As much can be seen on this trip as on a tour around the world.

The Canadian National Park, British Columbia, Rocky Mountains, Puget Sound, California, Golden Gate, Mexico, Yellowstone Park, Royal Gorge, Pike's Peak, Garden of the Gods, the Mormons in Utah, the Cowboys and Indians, all have formed themes of grandeur and romance for the writers of the age.

Never before has such a marvelous collection of travel features been offered on such terms by any newspaper.

ITINERARY

CHICAGO—ONE DAY will be spent in Chicago, the second largest city in the United States, stopping at the Great Northern Hotel. Special automobiles will carry the party for a tour of the city.

ST. PAUL AND MINNEAPOLIS, the twin cities of the North-west, the center of the great grain growing section, will have the party for several hours. The trolley tour of the two cities will be given the party.

CANADA—Two days will be spent on our luxurious train, spending through the great wheat and cattle countries of Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada.

CANADIAN NATIONAL PARK—Two days will be spent in the Canadian National Park. This park forms a continuous panorama of bewildering magnificence; wondrous glacial fields, starting precipices, snow-capped peaks, wide forest areas, clear lakes and peaceful valleys, combine in making this indeed the "Wonderland of America." A side trip to Great Glacier included.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—After a short stop in Vancouver, the party will board the Canadian Pacific steamer for a day's sail on Puget Sound on our way to Seattle, visiting Victoria en route, with a trip through the Parliament Buildings.

SEATTLE, the "Queen City of the Northwest," will entertain the party for one day, stopping at the New Richmond Hotel. Here an automobile tour of the city will be given our party.

PORTLAND, the Rose City of the Northwest, will be a stop of special interest, our party stopping at the Seward Hotel. A special trolley trip will be arranged for our party. From this port the party will leave by steamer for San Francisco.

PACIFIC OCEAN—This trip would be incomplete without a cruise on the Pacific Ocean, where investigating sail air will give rest and comfort to our travelers. For this purpose we will use the new palatial steamer "GREAT NORTHERN," the finest ocean-going steamship built in the United States. This ship is 334 feet in length, with a tonnage of 12,000, and accommodations for 1,000 people. Passengers will have choice of stateroom or rail between Portland and San Francisco, where notice is given five days in advance of leaving time.

SAN FRANCISCO—SEVEN DAYS will be spent in San Francisco at the world's greatest exposition. "The Golden City" will surprise itself with a panorama of never ending brilliancy. The grandeur and magnificence of the huge exhibition palaces and the Grand Court of Honor stand out as the University of the West. Illuminated fountains, Oriental Pagodas, Pinnacles, Splendor, etc., etc. Grandeur—everywhere. Looking will be furnished for eight nights at the renowned Argonaut Hotel, where you will be made to feel "at home" in every way. We give our party the following arrangement of side trips while here: Mt. Woods via the crookedest railway in the world to the "Big Trees" in California. Auto-seeing trip to San Francisco, including Golden Gate Park, Cliff House, Seal Rock, trip to Oakland, University of California and Berkeley.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, the land of perpetual sunshine and flowers, will be viewed from our luxurious train of reclining chairs, cars, with stops at many points of interest, including Santa Cruz and Santa Barbara, during a daylight run from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

The route of our train will include the Pacific Coast line, paralleling the ocean for hundreds of miles, and some landings, including the ocean itself. This trip will include the most picturesque scenery of California, as well as the great fruit growing section.

LOS ANGELES, the "City of the Angels," will have our party for three days, giving ample time to view the many interesting places in this section. No day here, beside a dead sea, is a great city of many attractions. The Square, which is surrounded by a great stone wall, is the great monument of the city. Here, beside a dead sea, is a great city of many attractions. The Square, which is surrounded by a great stone wall, is the great monument of the city. Here, beside a dead sea, is a great city of many attractions.

Angels to the sea, then 23 miles along the ocean shore, visiting ten beaches and eight cities, with free admittance to many attractions at these places. We have selected this trip, together with the Catalina Island sail, which is taken from this city, as two of our most delightful side trips that we give the members of our parties.

CATALINA ISLAND, one of the famous resorts of the world, will be included as part of our tour, and will be a trip of surpassing interest. One entire day will be spent on this island, and will carry you into a land of perfect enchantment. Here is located the famous submarine gardens of the Pacific ocean, which may be viewed from glass bottom boats.

SAN DIEGO—Two days will be spent here at the "Exposition Unique." This exposition has been building for six years; every building will be covered with a wealth of flowers, vines and tropical plants. Huge palms, weighing 18 tons will decorate the grounds. Nearly three million specimens of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers will be housed in mammoth, variegated, colored, buildings and grounds. San Diego is one of the oldest cities in California, and many traces of its Spanish origin still remain in its streets and ruins. The party will be given lodging at the world renowned San Diego hotel. The trip to Mexico will be made from here.

MEXICO will naturally be a point of great interest to our tourists, and we have arranged to compliment our patrons with a special trip to Tijuana, Mexico, where many points of interest will be seen, including Boundary Monument, Port, some of recent battles, curio stores, customs office.

SALT LAKE CITY—One day will be spent in Salt Lake City, stopping at the Xenon Hotel. Here, beside a dead sea, is a great city of many attractions. The Square, which is surrounded by a great stone wall, is the great monument of the city. Here, beside a dead sea, is a great city of many attractions.

Baltair Beach is one of the most famous resorts in the world, as nowhere else are conditions similar to those found here. Bathers find it easier to float than to sink in the waters of Great Salt Lake. Our party will be given a free trip to this famous beach.

ROCKY MOUNTAINS—One day will be spent on our special train in the very heart of the Rocky mountains, viewing the wonders of nature in this region. The Royal Gorge is the narrowest portion of the passage through the Rocky mountains. Granite walls tower 2,437 feet above the rushing, making the sky appear as a mere thread of light with the stars shining at midday.

COLORADO SPRINGS—Two days will be spent in Colorado Springs, where opportunity will be given to visit the many wonderful attractions in this section. Here is located the wondrous formation called the "Garden of the Gods." Pike's Peak, snow-capped in summer, places the clouds at the mountain's altitude at nearly three miles.

From Colorado Springs a side trip of forty miles, through vast, lonely country, will be taken to the celebrated mining camps of Cripple Creek and Victor; also Crystal Park, Seven Falls and Manitou.

Our party will have entertainment furnished at the Plaza Hotel, one of the famous hotels of the west. We also compliment our party with a side trip to Manitou Springs and the "Garden of the Gods."

DENVER—One day will be spent in Denver, the "Queen City of the Plains," where one may see snow-capped mountains in every direction for a hundred miles or more.

Our party will be welcomed and entertained at the famous Albany Hotel while in the city. The chamber of commerce will arrange a special form of entertainment for our party. We give our party a special sight-seeing trip of Denver.

THE PLAINS will be viewed with interest on our daylight run from Denver to St. Louis, through Kansas and Missouri, then to Atlanta. A daylight run from St. Louis to Atlanta, the end of the journey, as well as the starting point.

This Tour will cover a period of 24 days, visiting all of the points mentioned in the Northwest Circle Tour, except Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Canadian National Park, British Columbia, Seattle and Portland. However, on this tour you can visit the famous Grand Canyon, the most wonderful geological and spectacular phenomenon known to mankind, and whose claim to "Titan of Chasms" cannot be disputed. Imagine a giant river rushing for hundreds of miles through a chasm more than a mile deep and twelve miles wide.

This tour will include special stops at the following places:

TWO DAYS on palatial train traversing the great plains of the west.

ONE DAY in the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

GRAND CANYON—On our Southwest Circle Tour our special trains will stop one day at Williams, Arizona, for the convenience of those desiring to see the Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon is a side trip from this point, for which the railroad makes an extra charge of $7.50 for the round trip; or 300 extra points.

Schedule and Special Information About Constitution Tour Offer No. 2

The first train on the Southwest Circle Tour will leave Atlanta May 2, and be continued at intervals of 25 days during the Exposition period.

These special trains will be in charge of experienced Personal Conductors, who will look after the pleasure and comfort of our tourists at all times.

The above trips will include transportation, Pullman, every meal for the entire tour, except San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego, where, for obvious reasons, it is not practical to have

TWO DAYS in San Diego and Mexico.

THREE DAYS at Los Angeles.

SIX DAYS in San Francisco.

ONE DAY in Feather River Canyon.

ONE DAY in Salt Lake City.

ONE DAY in the heart of the American Rockies.

TWO DAYS at Colorado Springs.

ONE DAY in Denver.

the party to come to one place for meals. High-class modern hotels in all cities visited, and the same side trips as shown in detail on our Northwestern Circle Tour in all cities visited by this tour, with a boat trip on San Francisco Bay in addition.

The above trips are based on three persons to each Pullman section or compartment, and four to each drawing room. Exclusive use of a lower berth in a Standard will be $22.50 extra. Use of drawing room for three will be $20 each extra. For two $35 each extra.

NO. 1—CONSTITUTION "SPECIAL" TOUR

Given For 4,800 Points

The following Special 16-Day Tour has been arranged after careful consideration, as the most economical and shortest tour that can be made to the west and the Exposition. However, you understand that this tour is basic as to time and rate, and longer tours with stops as required and many additional side trips and features can be provided at proportionate expense.

Schedules and Features—16-Day "Special" Tour

The routing on this tour will be via our regular Southwest Circle Tour, touching the following points: Kansas City, Grand Canyon, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, Denver, etc.

This Tour Will Leave Every Saturday, Beginning March 6th

The above trip includes the following features:

First-class round-trip railroad transportation to San Francisco and return. Ticket for one Standard Pullman berth (one in a berth), San Francisco and return. (Where two use a berth jointly there will be a reduction of $10 each.)

Transfer of person and baggage to and from hotel. Six days lodging at Argonaut Hotel in San Francisco. Side trip to Muir Woods, via the crookedest railroad in the world to the "Big Trees" of California.

Auto sight-seeing trip in San Francisco, including Golden Gate Park, Cliff House, Presidio, and Chinatown.

Steamer trip on Bay of San Francisco.

Meals are not included en route on Pullman or otherwise and while in San Francisco.

NOS. 4 AND 5—CONSTITUTION "PANAMA CANAL" TOUR

14,000-Mile Circle Tour of 35 Days by Steamer and Rail

Given For 11,800 and 12,600 Points

Among the most attractive sea voyages ever offered the public are our Panama-Pacific Line, 16-day trip between New York and San Francisco, including a daylight sail through the Panama Canal, returning by rail through the Rocky Mountains, or vice versa. This attractive new passenger service is maintained by the largest and finest vessels plying between these two great cities of the East and West coasts of the United States—Panama-Pacific Line's "Finland" and "Kronland," splendidly equipped twin-screw steamships, each of 22,000 tons displacement, with accommodations for one thousand people. The courses are laid over tranquil seas and in mild latitudes, and the imposing dimensions of the boats—508 feet long—insure a steadiness under the most adverse weather conditions.

Many points of interest will be covered on these series of tours, and our tourists will have an opportunity of visiting the following interesting places:

THREE DAYS in New York City. SIXTEEN DAYS on steamer. ONE DAY at Panama Canal. SEVEN DAYS or more in San Francisco. THREE DAYS at Los Angeles.

TWO DAYS in San Diego and Mexico.

ONE DAY in Salt Lake City.

ONE DAY in the Heart of the American Rockies.

TWO DAYS at Colorado Springs.

ONE DAY in Denver.

Schedules and Features

Beginning on April 27, from Atlanta, will be operated three expense-laden tours every three weeks, during the Exposition period.

The above trips include the following features:

First-class steamer and railroad transportation from Atlanta and return. Steamer and meals on steamer; Standard Pullman berth. Three days' lodging at Chelsea Hotel in New York. Seven days' lodging at Argonaut Hotel in San Francisco. Side trip to Muir Woods, via the crookedest railroad in the world to the "Big Trees" of California. Auto sight-seeing trip in San Francisco, including Golden Gate Park, Cliff House, Presidio, and Chinatown. A daylight run from San Francisco to Los Angeles in reclining chair cars, through southern California, via Santa Cruz and Santa Barbara.

This trip does not include meals except where specified. Offer No. 4 calls for inside rooms on steamer—2 to a room—and will be given for 11,800 points. Offer No. 5 calls for inside rooms on steamer—3 to a room—and will be given for 12,600 points.

some and loss for others. By this plan the candidate is at least sure of the commissions, although one of these trips is easily within his or her reach.

This subscription proposition is based purely on new subscriptions. Points will not be given on old subscriptions. Any combination of circumstances by which The Constitution does not gain a new subscription will be classified as old. Any candidate who deliberately tries to have old subscribers discontinue the paper and the paper sent to a different member of the family or a different person entirely, not connected with the family, yet at the same time taking the place of the old subscriber in order that the candidate may be given points, will be cautioned for the first offense and barred from being a participant for the second offense.

The Constitution is making this most liberal offer for new subscriptions, and new subscriptions only. Send in your nomination at once and request a Panama Trip Receipt Book. Make this opportunity your opportunity to see San Francisco, the two expositions and the many other points of interest as outlined above.

ADDRESS ALL COMMUNICATIONS TO THE DAILY CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA.

Schedule and Special Information About the McFarland Tours

Beginning on May 16th, from Atlanta, they will operate a special train on their North Tour every five days throughout the period of the Exposition.

These special Exposition trains will be the most complete and palatial Pullmans ever operated in connection with a newspaper, being composed of Standard, Compartment, Drawing Room, Observation, Library, Dining and Baggage Cars, affording every luxury of modern railway travel.

These special trains will be in charge of experienced Personal Conductors, who will look after the pleasure and comfort of our tourists at all times.

The Constitution Tour No. 3 will include transportation, Pullman, every meal for the entire tour, except in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, where, for obvious reasons, it is not practicable to include meals and have the party come to one place for meals. High-class modern hotels in all cities visited, side trips in all cities visited, where specified.

Tour No. 3 is based on three persons to each Pullman section, or compartment, and four to each drawing room. Exclusive use of a lower berth in Standard cars will be $27.50 extra for the entire tour. Exclusive use of a compartment for two persons will cost each person $20 extra. Drawing room for three will cost each $25 extra. For two $45 each extra.

Not Included

use of a lower berth in Standard cars will be $27.50 extra for the entire tour. Exclusive use of a compartment for two persons will cost each person $20 extra. Drawing room for three will cost each $25 extra. For two $45 each extra.

YELLOWSTONE PARK TOURS—SPECIAL TOURS may be made as a side trip on any of our tours. For a five-day tour of the park, which will include all necessary expenses from Salt Lake City, add $55 to the cost of any of our tours; or 1,800 extra points.

PIKE'S PEAK AND CRYSTAL PARK TOURS—Two famous side trips at Colorado Springs are Pike's Peak and Crystal Park. The Pike's Peak trip is made by cog railway at a cost of $5 for the round trip, or 200 points extra.

The Crystal Park trip is via automobile at an altitude of a mile and a half, driving a 30-mile ride into the Rockies, like a glimpse of Switzerland, for only $3; or 150 points extra.

We want to have it understood that our guests who take the Northern trip may have an opportunity to visit Yellowstone Park on their return trip, yet it is not included in our offer. This side trip will cost $50 extra, or 1,800 additional points.

Pike's Peak will cost $5.00 extra, or 200 extra points, and Crystal Park will cost $2.00 extra, or 150 extra points.

Candidates are to understand that this is not a contest and the winning of a trip by one candidate in no way involves the winning of another candidate. There are enough trips for all, and any person who obtains enough points, as outlined above, will receive a trip regardless of the work accomplished by other candidates.

Any candidate who secures one-half of the required number of points to earn one of these trips and who is unable to continue the work, will be given credit pro rata for his or her points registered, and can, by paying the difference in cash, receive the trip offered; or any candidate who fails to win a trip will be paid a cash commission of 10 per cent if the amount of new business is under $100.00, and 20 per cent if the amount of new business exceeds $100.00 of his or her total collections on new subscriptions.

The Constitution does not expect something for nothing, nor does it desire to involve the good people of this vicinity in any plan resulting in remuneration for Anyone who has secured enough points to win any one trip may earn spending money on the following basis:

For an additional 850 points	$25.00 cash
For an additional 1,700 points	50.00 cash
For an additional 2,550 points	75.00 cash
For an additional 3,400 points	100.00 cash

And additional cash payments on the same basis.

Master Key

6TH INSTALLMENT

 (By special arrangement for this paper, a photodrama, corresponding to the installments of "The Master Key," may be seen at the Savoy and Alpha theaters tomorrow. By arrangement made with the Universal Film company, it is only possible to read "The Master Key" each week, but also afterwards to see moving pictures illustrating our story.)

John Dorr stood stupidly staring at the papers which he had found in the locked drawer of the dresser. His brief inquiries at the desk had only served to make the matter darker; so he had come back to the room to puzzle things out.

Painfully he set the papers in order before him. The first was that Ruth had gone to New York to deal with Everett about money for improvements to the Master Key. The second was that she had eventually not been able to get the money and had started West again. The third was that she had been in this very room; there lay the papers that represented the mine and its value. But how—where—how could it be?

His businesslike senses returned and he proceeded to wire Everett's office in New York, with the result that he was soon in possession of his address in San Francisco.

"So Everett's here, too," he muttered. "That is stranger yet. I guess it was time I dropped in. Now to find Ruth!"

He thrust the packet of papers in his pocket and then withdrew them and looked them again into the dresser drawer. He had a dim notion that Ruth might come back for them. Then he telephoned to the St. Francis hotel and left word for Everett, who was reported to be out.

Still following what his common sense told him was the logical method of unraveling the tangle he went down to the desk and entered into conversation with the clerk. Meanwhile his eye ran down the register. Opposite the number of the room he now occupied he saw a heavily scrawled "Mrs. J. Darnell and Daughter."

He frowned and the clerk said sympathetically, "You must have a nasty headache."

"I have," John returned. "Met with an accident in an auto that rather upset me." He laid his finger on the register and controlling his voice, went on, as if casually, "I see Mrs. Darnell stays here."

To Dorr's secret amazement the clerk became mysterious, leaning across the desk to whisper, "Ah! you know her?"

"I wanted specially to see her," John equivocated. "Is she here?"

"She is not, and she left in a very strange way," the clerk explained quietly. "She came here last evening with her daughter. I saved them the room you have now. Along in the late hours she suddenly came down with the girl unconscious and told me that she had been taken very ill and she was hurrying her to a hospital. There were a couple of men with her and the house detective didn't like the looks of the whole affair, so he followed them."

"Was the girl very fair-haired and—and beautiful?" Dorr managed to ask in an indifferent tone.

"Precisely," responded the clerk, suddenly matching his guest's manner. "If you want to find Mrs. Darnell maybe the house detective got her address—or the address of the hospital they took the girl to."

Presently, in response to a summons, appeared the detective, who scanned John's somewhat bruised face thoughtfully, saying nothing until the clerk explained that Mr. Dorr wished, if possible, to get into communication with Mrs. Darnell.

"The best I can do is to find the taxi driver for you," he said slowly, still studying John's strange figure. "He may be out on the stand now. Let's see."

As they passed out the detective continued, hesitatingly, "Do you know Mrs. Darnell very well?"

There was that in the man's tone that made John pause before answering. He glanced at the clock, impatient face and caught the glint of the steady eyes. He took a sudden interest in this matter. "I believe you're still interested in this matter," Dorr said, briefly. "Suppose we talk this over before hunting the taxi chauffeur?"

"I was merely curious—that's all," was the non-committal murmur.

"That girl is not her daughter," John continued. "I have reason to believe that it is Miss Ruth Gallon, the heiress to the Master Key mine, whom she is abducting. His passion blazed forth in spite of his self-restraint. 'I must find her and save her!'"

"Might I ask what relation you are to the young lady?" asked the detective finally.

John stared at him and then realized the oddity of his actions and words. He briefly explained his position at the mine and his wardship of the heiress. He also went into detail as to what he suspected Wilkerson of, describing him carefully.

"It was one of them; sure enough," agreed the detective. "But young heiresses ain't being kidnaped days like these out of hotels like this."

"I may be mistaken," John asserted wearily. "All I know of Mrs. Darnell is from occasional words dropped by Wilkerson. But I suppose we might get a clue as to where they went, anyway."

After some search of the long line of taxis they came to one which the detective identified as the one Mrs. Darnell had taken the night before.

"Driver, take us where you did those fares who were in such a hurry last night," the detective ordered.

The chauffeur shook his head. "You can search me for the address," he returned. "There wasn't any."

"What do you mean?"

"The driver leaned out from his seat and went on earnestly. 'You know how they jumped in and we rolled off. Well, it seemed it was a case of life and death, according to the woman, and I stepped on the machine and hastened some toward the North Pacific hospital. But when we got into Chinatown one of the men halted me and told me to drive just as he said. He got out here in front with me. And when we reached a certain spot they all beat it.'"

"Can you take us to that spot?"

"I was just wondering to myself whether I could find it," was the response. "But I'll try."

Sing Wah and His Wiles.

Sing Wah, or Wah Sing, as he was indifferently called, was outwardly a stolid, dull-eyed Chinese of uncertain middle age. His picture—it was in the gallery of every secret service office from Singapore to Philadelphia—was not less changeless of expression, nor more taciturn than he. Yet in spite of his somber clothes and general air of blank stupidity, Sing Wah was a man of mark, a man with a history replete with adventure and not too seldom, with crime.

He sat at the back of his little store night after night, blinking through the wooden screen at the various customers who came in to trade or barter. And year after year they came to his door, the pirate and the thief, the smuggler and the robber, and he took his toll of them and passed them on.

Among the many hundreds who had availed themselves of Sing Wah's aid was Wilkerson, who, during dark periods of his career, had several times run athwart the barriers of the law and been compelled to seek refuge where he could.

Harry Wilkerson was not a fool; in some ways he was brilliantly endowed. In several deals he and Sing Wah had been partners to their mutual profit.

"You are a very good fellow, Harry," Sing Wah had told him once, as they drank tea in a little room in the rear. "You are a smart man—almost as smart as I am. But you are too hungry. You cannot resist your appetites. Now I—" he made a slight gesture of distaste with his lean brown hand. "I have no appetites."

Wilkerson nodded. "I guess you're right, Sing Wah. You even have a pride. You talk pidgin English to the tourists and the rest, instead of speaking the perfect English you know."

The dull eyes lit for a moment humorously. "I have always felt that I owed it to Oxford not to flout my education in a small tradesman's shop, don't you know?"

The imitation of the Oxonian drawl had been so natural that Wilkerson had slapped his thighs in delight.

It was to Wilkerson that the Chinese had explained his reason for never changing his address, no matter how brisk the police might be. "And I have thought out a scheme which you will like," he went on. "Come with me."

It was then that he showed Wilkerson the cylindrical room which had a single door and revolved at a touch on a lever.

"Dangerous stuff," commented Wilkerson. "If the police find that they'll send you."

"Sing Wah's pallid lips opened in faint smile. 'I built it for them. And the Chinatown guides know about it and will charge ten dollars extra for a trip through the bowers of the underground, as they call it.'"

The Chinese sneered. "Let them play with such things while I use the brains heaven may serve a purpose."

"Thus it came about that Harry Wilkerson, driven to his wits' ends to accomplish his designs, brought him of Sing Wah and fairly drove Jean Darnell and Drake before him."

To Mrs. Darnell's credit it must be said that she rebelled strongly. But the stake was too great to risk and she bitterly consented to Wilkerson's hastily outlined plan of hiding Ruth away somewhere in Sing Wah's precincts until they could once more get their plans into working order.

Thus it happened that just when Drake entered Sing Wah's unpretentious doorway the taxi with the hotel detective and John Dorr drew up in a side street and stopped.

"It was here they left me," said the chauffeur, sulking.

The detective and John got out and stared about them. They were in the lower part of Chinatown, a single tier of blocks that stretched beyond the bounds toward the bay—not in the Quarter, but of it.

"Which way did they take the girl?" said the practical detective.

The driver led them around the corner and up an alleyway. He pointed to Sing Wah's door. "I think they went in there," he muttered.

"Ah!" said the detective thoughtfully. "When I was on the police force I used to know that Chinaman. He's the smoothest rascal in America, bar none."

John gripped his teeth in helpless rage. "And she's in that den of foul clutches," he growled aloud.

At this moment a policeman came along and accosted John's companion familiarly. In a few words the case was explained to him.

"You won't find anything, of course," the officer remarked. "But just for satisfaction let's have a look-see and a chin-chin with Sing Wah."

They entered the shop just as a Chinese was closing a panel door after Drake, who had come to make his promised attempt to win Ruth's confidence. Sing Wah was nowhere to be seen.

After some futile parley with the Chinese, whose ignorance was complete in every detail, the two officers agreed that they were wasting time.

"Old Sing's the boy to see," said the house detective. "Let's wait a while."

Now Sing Wah had pondered the affair during the night and the more he thought over having a lovely white girl in the cylindrical room the less he liked it. It was deadly dangerous. He was determined to get the girl away immediately. So he was immensely glad to see Drake.

Drake attempted to explain what Wilkerson wanted, but the Chinese cut him short.

"Harry is insane," he said quietly. "He is mad over that woman. I have done all I can. You must get her out of here."

"But how?" demanded Drake. "She doesn't know me and she'll scream her head off and I'll be arrested and we'll all be in a mess."

Sing Wah nodded thoughtfully. Then he looked up and listened to the low words of one of his clerks. Dismissing him with a single grunt he turned to Drake.

"There's not much time," he said softly. "They are on the trail already."

"Who?"

"The police!" He motioned Drake to a chair in the little alcove where they stood and went on. "Stay here a moment. I will see for myself."

He pulled a lever and the room swung round till the door was opposite him. With long, slender fingers he slipped back the panel and vanished.

Ruth lay on a couch, open-eyed and white-faced. Beside her a richly dressed Chinese woman crouched, whispering soothingly. At sight of Sing Wah's sudden appearance, in silent horror.

"I beg your pardon, miss," Sing said in his stilted English. "I have come to take you back to your friends outside."

The girl shrank back. "No! No! No!" she moaned. "They are not my friends."

"Surely Harry Wilkerson—" Sing suggested craftily, to see how the land lay.

"They'll say nothing," said Wilkerson furiously, "in Chinatown!"

"You can easily gain her confidence and get hold of the papers and maybe—"

Drake laughed ugly. "I look like the kind of a joker who would dress up as a banker and then proceed to make my client's acquaintance in a Chinese joint. How am I supposed to know she's there? I tell you, Wilkerson, that you can't travel straight, even when you pay us. Why in God's name you ever took that girl to that place of Sing Wah's is beyond my comprehension; any place would have been better. Now you have put the heads of all of us in a noose. Drake laughed ugly. "I look like the kind of a joker who would dress up as a banker and then proceed to make my client's acquaintance in a Chinese joint. How am I supposed to know she's there? I tell you, Wilkerson, that you can't travel straight, even when you pay us. Why in God's name you ever took that girl to that place of Sing Wah's is beyond my comprehension; any place would have been better. Now you have put the heads of all of us in a noose. You know what people will say when—"

Sing Wah's and make a thorough search.

"Not that I think we'll find anything or anything," said one of the policemen. "But it never does any harm to take a look-see through Sing Wah's, and the lieutenant is coming down now to take charge."

A moment later that officer arrived and John Dorr made his tale as convincing as possible. The lieutenant seemed dubious.

"It isn't like the old rascal to run his head into danger that way," he insisted. "I think you are on the wrong track. Who did you say was the man who did all this?"

"Wilkerson, Harry Wilkerson," John answered bitterly.

"Wilkerson?" repeated the lieutenant. "That puts another color on the matter. Wilkerson and Sing Wah used to be pals. This'll bear looking into. Come on, men."

With wonderful quickness the officer disposed his men so that every exit was guarded. Then he motioned to John to follow him and went boldly up to the shop door and entered.

Followed again a futile parley with a Chinese who professed to know no language but his own. The lieutenant's quick ear caught a sound of something moving directly behind the impassive clerk. Brushing him aside he smashed in the door in the partition and strode into the hallway beyond. John Dorr was close at his heels.

The next few moments were to live long in John's memory as the strangest of his life.

"Be careful!" warned the officer. "The rascal may start shooting."

Even as he spoke there was a ruddy flash down the dark alleyway and Dorr staggered back.

"Only my arm," he muttered.

"Come on! Don't give 'em another chance at us here, Ruth's men!"

An instant later they stood in the cylindrical room. John stared about him, but the lieutenant merely remarked, "This room was built merely for tourists' consumption. Let me see that arm of yours!"

Examination proved the wound to be slight. They glanced from it to the door which swung slowly away as the room revolved.

"Trapped, by smoke!" said the lieutenant. He laid a warning hand on Dorr's arm. "Keep quiet. We've lost our directions and we must wait a moment, till we discover where that doorway is."

So they stood hesitant for a few long seconds. A panel slipped open in the wall and a woman's face appeared for an instant. Swift as the Chinese woman was, the police officer was quicker and he plunged through the shadow panel, with Dorr at his shoulder.

Once through they paused in the semidarkness to orientate themselves. Finally the lieutenant stepped forward. "This way," he said. "I hear yours!"

At that very moment there came up to them an unearthly scream, a shriek of pure terror.

"Ruth! John yelled, and he and the officer both plunged forward.

Instead of the firm footing they expected empty air received them. Twenty feet below they struck the water.

JOHN DEERE EXPERT TO LECTURE THURSDAY

Dr. W. E. Taylor Will Speak on Soil Culture and Modern Farm Methods.

Under the auspices of the Atlanta Ad Men's Club, Dr. W. E. Taylor will deliver a lecture in the Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock on Monday, January 14. Dr. Taylor is the director of the Johns Hopkins University, and is located in Moline, Ill. His lecture Thursday night will be on the farm methods of the future.

Dr. Elmo Masareng, president of the Ad Club, who has charge of the lecture for the organization, a large number of members of the club are being sent out to members of the chamber of commerce, and to other business organizations, and to a large number of the farmers of the entire territory. A big attendance is expected.

Dr. Taylor has been connected with the John Deere Plow company for many years, and is an expert in the cultivation and up-to-date methods of farming and the high yields of the farm lands. It is an interesting speaker always adds enough spice to make his lecture a most interesting one.

There are in Atlanta a number of business organizations, and at least a few in this measure, farm lands, and in this especially it is figured that his lecture will be of much of value.

This will be the first meeting of the Ad Club, and the members of the Ad Club members are working to make the lecture a most interesting one.

Ad Men for the new year, and the members are working to make the lecture Thursday night a success in every way.

"Buy Linens on a Rising Market Far Below Regular Prices."

That's the Message of the 17th Annual Linen Sale and women who know RELIABLE linens and wish to save money are heeding the message.

It is possible, of course, for Europe to plant new flax fields this Spring, but such planting is scarcely likely.

Linen prices are bound to rise—have already risen 10 per cent to 15 per cent.

In face of these facts, however, present linen prices in Rich's Annual Sale are 10 per cent to 50 per cent less than regular prices of last year.

Choose
—Table linens and napery
—Linen cloths by the yard
—Decorative linens
—Bedding linens, etc.
—Linen towels, etc.

Choose from our entire stock of above goods at reductions of 10 per cent to 50 per cent. (Linens—Main Floor, Left.)

Wafted In on the Wings of Fashion—a Sky Full of New Laces & Embroideries!

—Their Fresh Loveliness Leaves Description Dumb!

YOU are not to go without fine laces and embroideries this season, even though conditions abroad have made such merchandise hard to get.

Despite the war our manufacturer's agents went personally to Europe. They saw that our entire shipments of advance importations came through. You will see here

A Spring Shower of Dainty Buds and Blossoms Enmeshed in a Bed of Snowy Whiteness

—Organdies sheer as gossamer, bestrewn with flowers that fairly sing S-P-R-I-N-G.
—Chiffon voiles, light as thistle down, self-embroidered or vivid with gay colors.
—Crepes, lingersies, Swisses—a sea of white, with billowy waves of beautiful ruffles.

—Lace and net combinations that will fairly float into fashion's favor.

—Sturdy handloom linen laces for trimming all sorts of undermuslins, house dresses and children's wear.

—The ever-pretty and practical Calais Vals, from France, and we don't know when we shall get more.

You can well imagine that these laces and conditions abroad, you will, of course, wish to choose early while assortments are knowing and complete. On special sale are
